

Acknowledgments

My sincerest thanks go to my wife, Nancy, for her patience and understanding during the years of this project.

I thank W. A. Dickerson of the N.C. Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services, and H. M. Singletary and R. C. McDonald, both formerly of the same, for the opportunity to pursue this research.

I thank L. L. Deitz for his patience and guidance in this project and for his thorough review of the manuscript. I also thank the other members of my graduate committee: J. R. Baker, J. W. Hardin, and especially P. M. Marsh, who, though retired, graciously consented to serve.

Special thanks go to P. Russell and D. Batchelor of the Analytical Instrumentation Facility (NCSU) for use of the scanning electron microscopy equipment, to M. Gregory for patiently training me on the Hitachi S3200-N Scanning Electron Microscope, and to V. Knowlton of the Center for Electron Microscopy (NCSU) for her valuable assistance in digitizing the photographs.

I am indebted to the following individuals and institutions for lending specimens (the four letter acronyms refer to institutions as listed in the Materials and Methods section below): C. A. Olson (UAIC); J. B. Whitfield (UADE); L. Kimsey and S. Heydon (UCDC); R. L. Zuparko (CASC); D. R. Smith (USNM); D. B. Wahl (AEIC); C. L. Smith (UGCA); R. L. Brooks (SEMC); M. S. Kelley (MCZC); F. W. Stehr (MSUC); P. J. Clausen (UMSP); E. L. Quinter (AMNH); E. R. Hoebeke (CUIC); R. L. Blinn (NCSU, now including NCDA); D. Azuma (ANSP); R. A. Wharton (TAMU); R. S. Zack (WSUC); S. R. Shaw (ESUW); J. T. Huber (CNCI); J. M. Perron (ULQC); K. van Achterberg (RMNH).

A "thank you" is also extended to P. Barbosa, of the University of Maryland Entomology Department (UMD) for the series of reared specimens examined.

This research was funded in part by the North Carolina Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services, Raleigh.